an introduction:

Dealing with future civilized formulations with their various implications and needs requires a person who believes that the future is not only the result of objective factors. The future is made of self-factors in man (such as ambition, ambition, adventurousness, adventure and creativity), so it is necessary that man be sufficiently convinced of his ability to make the future he wants, because the future is not just predicting or predicting as much as invention, creativity.

There is no society in this world except to receive the curriculum of his life from the environment in which he lives affected and influenced, especially with regard to the social, cultural, civilizational, economic and political processes that embody the demands of the people and aspirations.

Since human civilization is a great value for the reform of societies and peoples with different cultures, we see that the messenger of humanity Muhammad peace be upon him laid the foundations of this moral civilization in human life. This was clear in his sermon which was in the tenth year of migration. The Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) said: "O people, your Lord is one, and your Father is one, and your Lord is one, Is it not better for an Arab on Ajami, or for a god? "The rights of the people are reserved, and no one is preferred to anyone except by pure faith, and good deeds that benefit the homeland and the human being. The human being is a human being. The axis of sustainable development is so much as this man has value in himself, in his society and in his people, be creative in advance of his civilization, contributing to its preservation; because it constitutes the march of the society to which he belongs. Hence the research topic. And define a plan to define and reach a goal through the study of the definition of culture and science, which leads us to determine what is the civilization and the social concept, and to obtain results that determine the conditions that must be met for society and human rights, and identify the characteristics and abilities required to build the creative human.
