Introduction;

The existence of family is the extension of human life, and the secret of human survival, each person tend with his nature to get a wife, house and children..” human isn’t strong enough unless he has family to back him up”. Family has contributed in building up human civilization, and establishing cooperative relations among people, thanks to family-after Allah-in educating human about socialization basics, politeness and behavior roles, as it is the reason of preserving many crafts and industries that were inherited among their children from their fathers.

Islam cared about family deeply and took care about it, made sure it is held together and preserved from whatever might affects its support.

From here came this research and the title to discuss the effect of globalization and its danger on Muslim family and the research was written in six main sections;

First-the concept of family.

Second-the concept of globalization.

Third- concept of legislation laws

Fourth- Islamic canon and its caring about family and protecting it.

Fifth- dangers of globalization on Muslim family and on social life.

Sixth- recommendations to protect Muslim family from globalization.
