

The relation between the design philosophy and the philosophy value.

Ass.teacher/ Mona Sayed Othman Badr

The high institute of applied art-6th October

Proff.dr./Omaima Ibrahim Mohamed Kassem

Proff. of Furniture design-manufacturing education department-faculty of education-Helwan university

Proff.dr./Ismael Ahmed Awad

Proff. Of furniture design-internal design and furniture department-faculty of applied art-
Helwan university

Introduction;

Philosophy isn't a modern science, but it is attached to the humane history. Primitive human had his own philosophy. The word itself is an old Greek compound word consists of 2 parts which are (philo) means love, and (sophy) which means lover of wisdom so linguistically it means the love of wisdom and the philosopher is the lover of wisdom.

Design is the expression of (philosophical theory) through an opinion or ideology and it is the result of fusion between science and art inside the human; mind, soul and money.

If we take a look at the development of science and technology of production, we will see clearly that science evolved basically from art. It is well known that arts are the origin of science, in the past the science of management were called the art of management also the art of marketing etc...

Technology was developed out of craft, where human used to manufacture his own tools at the stage of hunting and collecting food which were a stage of human development stages, then appear the crafter who is specialized in manufacturing those tools that was at the stage of settlement, stability and agriculture. Till all these things and tools are manufactured today by industrial companies and production firms that rely on advanced technology in the manufacture and production fields.