

Optical rhythms: Optical rhythm aesthetic values and their Effects on the artwork

Assist. Prof. Dr. Amina Hamed Mohamed

Assistant Professor - Department of Photography (General Photography) - Faculty of Fine Arts - Helwan University

omniahsakr@yahoo.com

Abstract

This research deals with the "aesthetic values of visual rhythm and its impact on artistic work" as it is concerned with studying the nature of visual rhythm on the basis that it is an element in philosophical and aesthetic thought, and the wonderful experience of the artistic researcher, which fits with her interest in this subject. It included many paintings through which the researcher expressed the element of visual rhythm

The researcher's goal in addressing this topic was to identify the different types of rhythm and its different forms, in order to find out the positive impact generated by it within the artwork. Is it easy to see in the visual arts or not? The research also dealt with an analysis of the visual rhythm through the works of great artists, then an analysis of the work of the researcher, which dealt with an explanation and analysis of many of the works carried out by the researcher with this experience, which was the subject of her exhibition, which she theorized all his paintings in order to clarify the content of this exhibition as well as the performance methods used to formulate These paintings works.

The visual rhythm is one of the structural elements on which the success of the pictorial work is based, and among the findings of the research, the researcher found a set of data that focused on that the beauty of the artistic work stems from within it, given that it is a structure of formal relationships, and that the visual rhythm combines as It was proved by the results of the research between the totality of the painting elements of shapes, lines and colors, and accordingly, the visual rhythm is more important in achieving the aesthetic goal in the artistic work, and then the aesthetic visual rhythm is achieved in the visual arts.

Key words:

visual rhythm - rhythm of music - pattern - repetition.