Abstract:

The research aims to clarify art association with society culture and the issues that prevail in it. Culture can be considered an important factor in shaping art topics in general, or reflected on art in different forms.

Ancient arts history and different society's culture can be preserved by embodying them with artworks. This contributes to contemplating details and inscriptions of various artworks.

Hence the art role through science and technology to contribute for solving societal problems and individuals, as well as developing the community's aesthetic culture and raising the aesthetic sense through the influence of different fields of arts, and the absorption of different cultures. The arts also contribute to the development of the cognitive, social and even emotional aspects of people through learning the arts.

Therefore, the research focused on highlighting the clear impact of arts on the culture of any individual, that can be considered as a catalyst for individuals and for the advancement of works whose art reflects the lifestyle of each individual in society.

The research sheds light on the fact that culture is one of the pillars of society to build and advance it, as every nation has a culture from which it derives its characteristics and behaviors. Art is one of the tools for applying culture in all respects, and culture contributes to the development of human perceptions. Thus, it can be said that there are no arts without culture, and vice versa, so we find in their union a distinct creative production.
