Stipulations of Publishing (For Researchers)
" Journal of Art and Design "
Periodical – Scientific – Arbitral

Arbitration:

The publishing organization realized the importance of the logistic work that is concerned with receiving researches till the stage of printing them, in order to ease the procedures and the difficulties, the publishing organization used a program that contains the following stages:

- 1- Sending the research to two reviewers who are specialized in the field of the research, to respond within 21 days.
- 2- to be scientifically judged (double anonymous arbitration) which means hiding the name of the author when sending the research to be arbitrated.
- 3- In case of the reviewers' approval, the research will be transferred to file with the name "articles ready for publishing."
- 4- In case of one of the reviewer refuses the research, the research will be sent to a third reviewer who will decide to accept or refuse the debated research.
- 5- In case of acceptance under modifications, the research will be sent back to the author to undergo the required modifications.
- 6- The reviewers are committed to fill in a detailed on-line form about the arbitrated research on the website that clarify the reasons of acceptance or rejection.
- 7- The publishing committee eventually revise the research and prepare it according to the international standards of publishing, and the research will be ready for the final release.

Terms of Publishing:

- The journal publishes genuine scientific researches in fields of Art and design that are written in Arabic or English or French language, with a summary to be introduced translated in English or French (certified translation) for the Arabic research within 5 pages that include the problem, goal, significance, methodology, scientific experiments, charts, results, Recommendations and references of the research paper.
- The journal allows authors to hold on and keep their copyrights, conditioned that the research has never been published or introduced to be published at any other magazine. The researcher should provide an assurance that the paper will not be introduced to any other destination till a decision is taken regarding the research paper.
- The paper shouldn't be a part of a published book or a scientific thesis that has been discussed earlier. The original copy that is provided to the journal shall not be returned back to the author whether it is published or not.
- The paper will be subjected to excerption checking program before being sent to be arbitrated, in case it passes a percent of 25% of a reference, the research will be returned to its author. References should be written in Chicago or Franco style.
